Thorsten Frewer trained at the Hotel Bareiss holiday resort in Baiersbronn, in the Black Forest, and has hospitality and catering in his blood. As a qualified hotel manager, he gained his first experience of organising events of all sizes there. After studying languages in Paris and holding further senior positions in the hospitality industry, he joined the Michelin Guide in 2002. He worked there as an international hotel and restaurant inspector. In 2019, he decided to become self-employed and has since worked as a consultant in the hotel and catering industry. From 2020 to 2024, he served as a city councillor in Karlsruhe, sitting on the supervisory board of Karlsruhe Tourism GmbH (KTG) among other roles. Having grown very fond of his adopted home, he volunteers on the board of the Society of Friends of the Badisches Staatstheater e.V. and works as a freelance tour guide for Hirschreisen. He is also involved in training young people in the hospitality industry.
